

Tuesday 28th April 2015

The WWF (World Wildlife Fund) are providing schools with a range of resources on their website for their Green Ambassadors scheme. By giving pupils the skills and confidence needed to engage and even lead environmental projects it motivates the next generation to think about how to live more sustainable lives. As a result schools green infrastructure will be improved along with a reduction in their carbon footprint; resulting in a saving of energy and water bills!

More information is available on their website - www.wwf.org.uk/about_wwf/working_with_schools/green_ambassadors/